Dear [redacted]

I had intended to mention one other matter of some significant interest to me in my letter to you of July 29, 1987. I will take the liberty to correct that lapse in this letter. It concerns the fence which has been erected in the rear of our properties.

Our agreement clearly stipulated that the fence would be five feet out from the line of small (six foot) pines on the back of the properties. In fact, it was erected barely two feet from those pines. I think it important to mention this fact only to point out again the lack of supervision and another example of the total disregard of the desires of the community and your agreement with us.

It is because of these two factors, i.e. bull-dozing the mature trees down and erecting the fence contrary to our agreement that I, for one, do not have full confidence with your statement, "I am confident that he will follow through with the above actions and that you will be satisfied with the vegetation upon completion of the project."

Very truly yours,

Robert L. Shortley
